dated 1798. From that date the lists were issued annually. Till the publication of the first volume of Transactions, in 1824, the lists were issued separately; from 1793 they were included in each volume of the Transactions, besides being printed separately ... From 1843 to 1847 the list was only issued in alternate years. With the grant of the charter in 1847 the society's system of prize-giving practically came to an end. Special prizes were offered and awarded from time to time, but the practice of issuing a general list of subjects for awards, though it was not formally abandoned, was really obsolete. A sort of attempt to renew it was made in 1865, when a list of the old character was published in the Journal. The last such list appeared in 1873 (premium list for the sessions 1872-4-5).—Sir H. T. Wood, A history of the Royal society of arts, 1914, p. 238-239.

"Before the year 1800 obituary notices of fellows were published partly, with the president's address, in their 'Proceedings of the society'. From 1800 to 1809 they were published at intervals at the end of a volume of the 'Proceedings'. Then, in 1800, the notices were printed in the 'Year-book', the first issue of which had appeared in 1807, but at their meeting on March 22, 1800, Council resolved—'That the obituaries of deceased fellows, in addition to appearing in the 'Year-book', be issued, either yearly or at such other intervals as may seem desirable, in a volume uniform with the 'Proceedings'. Four parts were so issued."

(Card 3)

numbering of the parts, begun anew with v. 7, has continued in an unbroken series to the present (vol. 1-7) In 1905 (v. 78) the Proceedings were enlarged to imperial octavo and were divided into two series, "Series A, containing papers of a mathematical and physical character," "Series B, containing papers of a biological character," corresponding to the two divisions in which the Philosophical transactions have been published since 1867.

Ordinary notices of deceased fellows were included in v. 7-64; v. 75 is made up of "obituaries of deceased fellows, chiefly for the period 1868-1904, with a general index to previous obituary notices"; the notices have been continued in subsequent volumes as follows: v. 76, 79, 80a-b-82a-b, 87a, 88a-b.

Beginning with 1866 the Transactions were continued in a separate series.

The two societies, the Philosophical society of Victoria and the Victorian institute for the advancement of science, which united in 1859 to form the Philosophical institute of Victoria (later, Royal society of Victoria) each published a volume of transactions: Transactions of the Philosophical society of Victoria, v. 1, 1864/65; Transactions of the Victorian institute for the advancement of science, v. 1, 1864/65. The first volume of transactions published after the amalgamation is dated 1868 (wanting in Library of Congress set).

Table of contents of the volumes prevailing is included in v. 4-5.

Each of the society are included in v. 2-5, 11-12, 14-15, 17, 20, 22, and new ser. v. 1-.

Rumsey, James, 1743?-1792.

A short treatise on the application of steam, whereby is clearly shown, from actual experiments, that steam may be applied to propel boats or vessels of any burthen against rapid currents with great velocity. Great velocity! The same principles are also introduced with effect, by a machine of simple and cheap construction, for the purpose of raising water sufficient for the working of grist-mills, saw-mills, &c., and for watering meadows and other purposes of agriculture. The present handbook, compiled on the original plan of the first edition, is a statistical summary of the economic and social life of the USSR. It contains a quantitative expression of the most important social and economic processes which have taken place on the territory of the USSR during the course of the last ten years of Soviet power. The present handbook is, to a certain extent, a reprint of the "Statistical reference book of the USSR," which appeared in the spring of this year, containing the statistical data of the place taken by a somewhat different arrangement of the material.—Comptinsky, poet.
